MEET THE FAN DESIGNER

You might not expect someone from landlocked Idaho, U.S.A. to be a ship designer, but that's exactly what Jake Sadovich became when he submitted his Ship in a Bottle model to the LEGO® Ideas website! A LEGO fan since before he can remember, Jake was inspired by an actual ship in a bottle that he had built a few years earlier when he decided to take on the challenge of recreating the famous combination of artwork and puzzle in LEGO brick form.

How did it feel when Jake's model reached the magic number of 10,000 votes for consideration as an official LEGO set? "Awesome and kind of strange. Excitement at reaching the 10K mark, and in just 48 days! A great feeling of satisfaction that so many people liked my creation and gratitude that they took the time to support it and make this happen."

Jake's advice for other LEGO builders who want to create a successful LEGO Ideas project: "Just build the things that you enjoy building. I built this just to see if I could. It was only after I posted it and received a lot of positive feedback that I even dreamed of submitting it to LEGO Ideas."

MEET THE MODEL DESIGNERS

Helping to turn Jake's idea into an official set was a meaningful project for LEGO® Model Designer Tiago Catarino. "I found out soon enough that making a LEGO ship in a bottle must be just as challenging as doing it in real life! However, I enjoyed it every step of the way and was very excited to be a part of the project. Ships and the sea mean a lot to me, as historically speaking, the Portuguese were one of the greatest maritime explorers back in the 15th and 16th centuries."

"I was really inspired by Jake's original submission, and tried as much as possible to keep the details that made his idea such a huge success on the LEGO Ideas website. There was room to do some crazy building techniques and sneak in some elements in cool colors, as well as bringing back some really old ones that we hope the fans will enjoy!"

LEGO Graphic Designer Mark Tranter had a nostalgic experience, too. "It was great working on the new sail. We wanted it to resemble the flag that Jake used in his model, with the old LEGO Castle lion emblem, so it was a lot of fun designing a sea monster with this look in mind and trying to give it a classic LEGO feel but with a more modern LEGO style. I'm very happy with it."
